

Capacitors Part Assessment

The need for additional testing or screening beyond vendor testing is normally not necessary for capacitors. The only exceptions are electrolytic capacitors stored for long periods or capacitors purchased from a vendor with known quality problems.